

Plagiarism check:

When writing any kind of research article (original, review, opinion etc.) the extent of relating the findings to the body of literature could make the author fall into the minefield of plagiarism. Paraphrasing and correct citations make the difference with the latter.